THE fact that the exports to the United States from Sheffield, England, during 1895 were $750,000 larger than those of 1894 is worth noting as an example of the way in which a Democratic Tariff policy does not benefit the manufacturers and laborers of the United States.

Kentucky District opposes the proposed issue of bonds, and thinks Congress should be compelled to shoulder the re-sponsibility for improving the existing condition of affairs. Well, if GROVER will go a-fishing and keep his finger out of the pie Congress will settle the whole matter very speedily and very effectually.

Economist. Having hunted in vain, Official Facts month after month through our statis-ties of exports for some indication of the capture of the markets of the world by American farmers, we felt sure that comfort could be gleaned from Secretary MORTON's report. We gather the follow ing facts: During the 1895 fiscal year there was decrease in our exports of cattle of 39,276 head as compared with 1894. On the other hand we imported 63,716 head of cattle from Mexico. But the wonderful stimulus given to our wool growing in-dustry is shown in our experts of 350,808' head of sheep, an increase of 300 per cent. ever 1894, when only 85,809 were

Concerning the foreign markets for American meat products, Mr. MORTON says that "prices for bacon averaged considerably lower during the year 1895 than in the year 1894." Though there was "a very considerable advance in the price of bacon" in the British market in the summer, "United States bacon did not par-ticipate to any appreciable extent in the general advance." During seven months of the year we sold 15,680,000 pounds more bacon, but received $1,000,000 less money for it. It is with bacon as with other of our farm products, the markets of the world are willing to take then when they need them, not when we want to sell them; and at their price, not our price. Of our live stock trade in the British market Mr. MORTON says

"Up to the present year the United States and Canada have had an unquestioned monopoly in the supply of imported live cattle to the British people; but now there is vigorous and growing competition from Argentina, and also incipient competition from Argentina, and also incipient competition from Argentina, and cannot be maintained for us, as other countries are trying to effect its capture.

Again it is said that "shipments of chilled beef from the United States fell to be for the four the state of the present year 11,000,000 pounds." Of our these we learn that: "Throughout the year United States cheese has commanded the minimum figure upon the Regifish market." We also shipped to Regifish market." We also shipped to the countries are the stan in the 1804 period. We supply that market of the world with only I per cent. of its fetal imports of butter. There is a great market for transferring the plant. Evidently this market of the world unnot be maintained for us, as other
